MAJORA CARTER

"Home(town) Security"

Hosted by Jon Greenberg

Education was Majora's way out of her troubled South Bronx neighborhood, but when circumstances took her home again her history of unorthodox approaches to persistent problems provided the blueprint for a promised land that had been with her all along.

Majora is the host of the Peabody Award winning NPR series "The Promised Land." She works with businesses, government, and economically underperforming communities on climate adaptation, urban micro-agribusiness, and leadership development strategies.
